COLORS AND FABRICS

New Weaves in Diaphanous Tullies and Ribbon to Match.

NEW BEAUTY IN WASH GOODS

The Mercerization of Fabrics Gives Them the Glossy Finish of Silk While Others Are Equally Adapted to Make One Look Pretty.

Every season the wash goods take on some new beauty in finish or design until it seems that there is nothing further to be desired. The mercerization of all these fabrics gives them the glossy finish of silk and makes them softer to the touch and less difficult to drape. The greatest difficulty in cotton goods heretofore has been that they were either stiff and unwieldy or else too soft and flabby after one or two days' wear. Now we can choose between the thick linen finish of the kinds of cotton goods designed for waists and the material used for full dresses only. The first sort is designedly made rather heavy and close and makes admirable waists for everyday wear, while the others are admirably adapted to make one look pretty. Among the heavier goods are the dark blue and red chevrons, and these are all mercerized, so that they have the rich luster of silk. The colors are very dainty and artistic, running mostly in grays, dull reds, blues of various tints, lilacs and heliotropes. In fact, these colors seem to be in evidence in every line of goods, completely displacing the browns of the past season. A few tans are seen and a few delicate biscuit shades, but the colors mentioned are those of the spring of 1905. In addition to them are seen champagne, old rose, cardinal, green in several shades, canary, black, creme and wild rose pink.

Diaphanous Tullies.

The new tullies are almost as diaphanous as the old ones, but since they are intended for summer gowns nothing could be more dainty. They are printed in delicate colors and are to be made up with many ruffles or flounces and trimmed with much lace and abundance of ribbon. The nets are very new, and, being produced in so many beautiful colors, they will become very popular. In string color they were very fashionable some ten years ago, but now they are infinitely handsomer. They are strong too. In the collonnes there are over twenty-five beautiful colors and also black and white, and they may be made into pretty gowns with the aid of lace and ribbon. Ribbon will be much more in demand this season than for some time. Some of the cotton goods have borders so arranged that they can be used for ruffles or flounces, as may be preferred. Silk dotted mulls are very pretty and are shown in many varieties so far as color and size of dots are concerned.

Dimity, with its delicate floral fancies strewn over the cords; satin liberty, also with dots and different floral designs, and new and exceptionally pretty organdies are among the summer goods which are now being eagerly bought for construction during Lent. So are the excellent shrunken linen suitings in dull finish and in colors and white. There are many embroidered mulls and swisses to choose from, all so fine and delicate that one would almost shrink from cutting such fabrics. I notice, too, that there is a large range of new designs in all wool challies. This is a beautiful material, soft and fine, and a favorite with women of refined tastes for home wear, though it is quite suitable for the street in its season. Polka dots are seen in fully half of these.

The Vogue of Ribbons.

Ribbons are to have a greater prominence than they have had for some time, and the newest of them are truly beautiful. Moire sash ribbon is seven inches wide and comes in blue, pink, turquoise, nile, cardinal, navy, white, cream and black. There are two shades of each color. There is a crepe de chine ribbon seven inches wide, in all the colors, very soft and flexible, and a failletine, five and a half inches wide, in all the shades, besides the novelties in shadow, pompadour fancy striped, polka dotted and plaid effects. Plaids of all sorts are seen. There are many dress goods of plaids of various kinds, but mostly those of the quietest colors. Several designs of cotton goods are plaid and mercerized so that they resemble silk. The turkish plaids are made into shirt waists, with the fold down the front made bias, or perhaps the waist itself is cut bias. Some of the plaids are scarcely more than checks, but the colorings are in good taste, being white and red, black and reseda, brown, pink, pale blue, navy blue and tan and heliotrope.

Shirt waists are of every color, but the white ones are certainly the most pleasing, especially the linen ones, which have a distinction and are made in tailor style, with straps, plaits or drawn work or a little fine embroidery done by hand. Some very fancy waists are made of valenciennes all overs, and others of imitation chuney are very dressy. In spite of the fact that prophets said otherwise, it seems that every thing is made up into separate waists.

OLIVE HARPER.

The Issue of Race.
In the twelfth chapter of the book of Judges it is told how the Gileadites slew forty and two thousand Ephraimites at the passages of Jordan because they pronounced "shibboleth" "sibboleth." That was a race issue. By their faulty speech the forty and two thousand proved themselves to be of another race, and they were slain. Read ancient history and learn that in the dark backward and abyss of time the hand of every man of one race was against the hand of every man of all other races. Stranger meant enemy, alien meant foe. Then the race issue was at its strongest. Centuries have passed. Almost universal tolerance has come about. While races still preserve their national identity, ingress and egress are, for the most part, free and open. The sons of one race mingle freely with the daughters of another. Without loss of caste or honor a French girl may marry a Neapolitan, a Swiss maiden a Prussian youth, a Norwegian Olsen a German Gretchen, a Russian an Austrian, a Spaniard a Portuguese, an Englishman a Scot. The population of the United States is an amazing composite of all these and other races.—San Francisco Argonaut.

SORE LUNGS

When your lungs are sore and inflamed from coughing, is the time when the germs of PNEUMONIA, PLEURISY and CONSUMPTION find lodgment and multiply.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs. It contains no harsh expectorants that strain and irritate the lungs, or opiates that cause constipation, a condition that retards recovery from a cold. FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR is a safe and never failing remedy for all throat and lung troubles.

The Doctors Said He Had Consumption—A Marvelous Cure.
L. M. Ruggles, Reasoner, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption and I got no better until I used FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR. It helped me right from the start and stopped the spitting of blood and the pain in my lungs and today I am sound and well."

Three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00. The 50-cent size contains two and one-half times as much as the small size and the $1.00 bottle almost six times as much. REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.
